Special to The Constitution.

WASHINGTON, December 21 .- The Yar brough boys are to figure before the supreme court of the United States. Judge Thompkins arrived to-day to carry their case to the highest tribunal. He will ask the court to hear a habeas corpus to determine by what authority they are held under their recent conviction as kuklux from Banks county. In the trial General Gartrell demurred to the indictment and claim that the supreme court had virtually decided that such offenses as the Yarbroughs, were accused of, came under cognizance of the state courts. This position was stressed by Tompkins in the motion for a new trial, but in both instances was overruled. Judge Thompkins came to Washington with a firm faith in bis cause, and has made vigorous efforts to day to secure an early hearing before the supreme court. Tonight Justice Woods assured him that the court will give the case consideration early in January, it having already adjourned for the holidays. Marshal Longstreet has been telegraphed a request to hold the prisoners at Atlanta until the case could be heard oners at Atlanta until the case could be heard here. Should he fail to do so, the supreme court would, of course, have as much juris-diction over them in the Albany prison as in Atlanta. Judge Tompkins strikes at a new point before the supreme court, but the en-tire run of the recent decisions of that court is in favor of the supremacy of the state law over all questions affecting the rights of citiens and the maintenance of law and good or

GEORGIA'S PART IN THE JUDICIARY.

Georgia is one of the chief items in the luxurious expense attendant on the federal judiciary. During the last fiscal year there was paid out in the northern district court of

was paid out in the northern district court o was paid out in the northern district court of Georgia for marshals' fees $24,500, for jurors $8,900, for witnesses $35,750; for support of prisoners $11,600, for attorneys $6,247, for cierks $11,656, for commissioners $7,738, for miscellaneous items $4,490. These items make a total of $111,183 as the cost to the government for running the district court which meets in Atlanta. There is only one district court in all the states which cost more: that court in all the states which cost more; that court in all the states which cost more; that was in the western Arkansas district where the government had to foot a bill of $156,943. The district court in South Carolina cost $110,451, but it covers the whole state, whereas the Atlanta court is only for the northern district of Georgia. In the district of Columbia the bills ran up to $243,300, of which $93,131 was for attorneys fees in the star route cases mainly. The feer fees in the star route cases mainly. The fear-ful expense of those cases is only partially represented in the big figures given as the ex-penses of the district court. It would be dif-ficult to tell what they did cost the governficult to tell what they did cost the government, while the defendants are said to have paid out far more than the amount of their ill gotten gains. The south Georgia court at Savannah is a cheap affair compared to that in Atlanta. Its total expenses footed up only $29,817, for the last fiscal year. An examination of the different cases tried, in each court during the period under consideration will show the reason of this great disparity. In the northern district there were 71 cases for violation of the internal revenue laws. Of these there were twenty-one in which a verdict for the government was obtained; one where a the government was obtained; one where a verdict for the defendant was ct for the defendant was given, and nine which were dismissed or contin-There were not a half a dozen criminal cases tried in the northern district court besides these revenue cases. In the southern district there was only one revenue case, three postoffice cases and two or three other three postoffice cases and two or three other criminal cases. So the precious internal revenue system, with its hordes of raiders and other employes, is responsible for the enormous drain the Atlanta court makes on the treasury. For the same reason the Arkansas and South Carolina courts are such heavy loads. The total expenses of the department of justice so far as footed up for the past fiscal year amounted to $2,929,857, but when all the items are in. $3,000,900 will. when all the items are in, $3,000,000 wil but when all the items are in, $3,000,000 will hardly cover the cost.

I BREWSTER EXTRAVAGANT?

Sharp criticisms have been passed on Attorney General Brewster. It took Washington some time to become reconciled to his rufiled shirts and his bright hued vests. Nobody here had done anything to deserve an attack of his yellow coach with its rich insignia of official nobility. Mean, prying correspondents called him cross and said he was too handy with the corkscrew. On these charges he has been arraigned before the court of public opinion with the result, it may be fairly said, of a mistrial, as the large jury is not and cannot become unanimous on all the counts. But there are other complaints of the attorney general and these directed against his official conduct. Affairs in the department of justice are believed to have been located with the conduct when the conduct we can be conducted as a conduct when the conducted when the Affairs in the department of just The enormous fees paid the counsel were justly condemned by the almost unanimous voice of the press. Special counsel has been employ-ed for the most trival service in various parts of the country. The department has been kept in tone with the lordly attorney general's taste, but somewhat discordant to the simple traditions he found there. An investigation tigatin of the Brewster administration may be looked for at this session.

In anticipation of such a sifting, I hear that a novel rigidity has been inaugurated in all branches of the department. Big fees, especially, have been severely pruned. In Brewster's flush days he would have paid Emory Speer a princely sum for his South Carolina services. It was rumored that Ben Butterworth was to have $20,000 for taking charge of the alleged election outrages in that state. In the face of congressand only a few blocks from a committee whose special duty it is to examine into expenses under his office Brewster cannot carry out his big ideas. A special election was ordered and Cook is once more a member after a series of trials. It is much rarer for congressmen to resign than it is for them to die, but two members of the present house actually resigned before it met. The circumstances of their cases, however, rob the action of all claims to self sacrifice. A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN'S TROUBLE.

Seeking a Divorce on the Ground That Her Hus-BALTIMORE, December 19.—A case that is exciting much interest here is the suit of Emma J. Fearing against her husband, Robert J. She is a pretty brunette, with large brown eyes, and is quite intelligent. Telling her story to-day for the first time, she said:

After urging he did so, and I saw at a glance that the child was not white. His brother was employed in the treasury department, and they treated me very kindly. Finally I got money enough to go back home and then decided to enter this suit. My husband is now on a government steamer at Mobile, Ala."

The committee on the Freedman's bank made a final report, memorializing congress to reimburse the depositors and denouncing the former act of congress in creating a commission at $5,000 a year to each member, to settle the affairs of the institution. In support of the adoption of the report Mr. Murrell said that the Freedmen's bank was the most disgraceful and sinful swindle that ever stained the earth or shocked high Heaven. The com-mission appointed at $5,000 a year each, was like a hyena devouring, like lions smashing the bones and sucking the marrow therefrom, and furthermore the republican congress which made the commission were the pall bearers of this same carcass. The committee adjourned to meet in Chicago, June 5d next.

I have the eight young pigs as pets, but they are yery poor, as they were but three weeks old when their mother got in the well. Now I consider it almost a firstele how the sow could live so long in an old well. I It is said that the Irish peddlers of the south are

At the last meeting of the citizens' sanitary asso ciation of Savannah, an address was delivered by Dr. J. G. Thomas, which might furnish clues in Atlanta as well as in Savannah. He said he was called in the latter part of November to attend a family in which the father was suffering from great physi cal depression and apparent blood poisoning, which had been in progress for several months, and which was accompanied with ulcers on his lower limbs of a diphtheretic character. In the same house was a son of the gentleman mentioned, who was also suffering from diphtheretic ulcers. In a few days diphtheria of the most malignant type developed in the young man's throat, accompanied with blood poising. After the lapse of a few days another son, a lad of 11 years, was attacked with the same disease, and died after an illness of ten days from blood poisoning. It was very evident, Dr. Thomas continued, that there was some local cause for these cases, and after investigation he found that the well from which the supply of water for the house was obtained was partly under the edge of the stable, from which there was liable to be drainage into the well. This well

The operators would have been arrested had it not been for a little female sentinel who was posted one hundred yards from the stillhouse. The Eagle also says: George Duff, who has been staying with Mrs. Lydia Williams ever since a small boy, came to the conclusion the other day h had been living single long enough. Having formed the acquaintance of a Miss Rider, grand-daughte of the old lady, who was willing to look to his strong arm for support, both struck out for Dahlone ga to have the ceremony performed, but behold, a message had been dispatched forbidding all marrying officers of our town splicing them. But determined not to be defeated, the night being fair, so was the maid, they walked near Auraria to have ordered him off of the place, accompaning the order with some unpleasant remarks which induced the bailiff to retire promptly. But thenry is not one of the kind to be balked by trifles in the discharge of his duty, and espying some cows across a field, he made for them. Now, Wash's brindle had been through the mills, and knew a bailiff when she saw him. She had passed through two or three courts and faced a jury in Elberton, and had been appealed to the Flatwoods where she stood before the mill of justice on more than one occasion. She had met the high bailiff of the county court and special bailiffs innumerable. So when she saw Henry approaching she made for the jungles on the banks of the placid Broad. Henry was mounted on a mule that claimed to be one of the first settlers of the country, and that soon showed an aversion to tackling Wash's brindle for a race across the bottoms. In fact, it was evident that the mule's sympathies were with brindle, and no persuasion could induce him to continue the race. But Henry overcame this difficulty by borrowing a horse from a darkey, (which said horse had a serious habit of rearing up behind) and continued the pursuit. Arriving at the river's bank, the cow took refuge amid the vines and brambles. and Henry, dismounting, selzed her by the tail and wrapped it around a sapling. The cow made one more mighty effort for liberty, and in her struggle left part of that caudal appendage in Henry's hands. But she lost her footing and became entangled in the vines immediately over the water. The bailiff proceeded legisurely to extricate the cow by cutting the vines, but when the vines gave way the cow fell on her back with a splash into the river. This was an emergency unlooked for by the officer of the law and he immediately set his with to work to devise a means of escape from the dilemma. Kemembering the power vested in him by the constitution and laws of Georgia he mounted the borrowed pony and proceeded at once to summons a posse comitatus, and with their add the cow was rescu

A HISTORIC GEORGIA VILLAGE, estling at the Base of Plue Mountain-Out of Sound

Special to The Constitution. GREENVILLE, Ga., December 22.-Lying at the base of Pine mountain in a green and productive basin is the little village of Greenville. To beauty and gayety Greenville lays no claim, ripe in years and tottering fast into decay. The inhabitants of this place have but few things to break the dull ony of their every-day life, save now and then the slow and sad windings of a funeral proession bearing to the "city of the silent," all that' mortal of some aged citizen, who has out lived the scriptural term of years allotted to man. Now and then the outside world is furnished with the facts of a murder committed within her incorporate limits which is placed upon the county records to show that a certain man was killed on a certain day and there soon fades away into nothingness and fast forgotten. This fact does not argue any lack of justice in the courts or disregard for the laws of the land. No, no, not that, but there seems to be a universal indisposition upon the part of the people to seek notariety abroad. Thus for three quarters of a century or more has this little town pursued of a century or more has this little town pursued the modest tenor of her way with not even the sound of a locomotive to remind her citizens that there is such a thing as a steam car.

A WELL KNOWN NAME.

Though not an inviting field for the fortune seeker, nor a gay resort for the denizens of fastion and society, yet with historie reminiscness it is replete. Kew, if any, places of its size and advantages has sent out into the world of usefulness as many good and truly, great men as Greenville. Coming from the cold and bleak shores of Conneticut, shipwrecked off the cost of Savannah, weak in frame and poor in purset was to Greenville that the late Unief Justice Hiram Warner directed his griding star. Here he planted his hopes and cast his fortunes, but it was not nere alone he reaped his golden reward, but from the people's hearts allower Georgia, whom he had served. After reaching the highest position in the keeping of people, he was satisfied and retired to rest and the grave. He is burried in the graveyard here, by the side of his wife neath the spreading oaks and silver poplars. A simple Italian marble shaft marks the spot. Why more for it needs not even that the keep his memory fresh and unforgotten. Again in the dark, cold winer of 1851, there rode up to the hotel a was liable to be drainage into the well. This well was dug previous to the construction of the Hall street sewer, and when the latter was built it dried the weil. The well was afterwards deepened and a supply of water obtained. As the sewer, by being deeper than the well, drew the water from the latter, so when the well was deepened it in turn drew its supply partly from the sewer. It was further ascertained that a few weeks before the sickness the soil pipe from the jail, which discharges into the Hall street sewer immediately in front of the house in which these cases of sickness occurred, and within a few feet of the well just mentioned, broke and three feet of the bottom of it washed out, allowing the sewerage matter to escape into the soil, and, as is well known with all liquids, it sought its level, and found its way into the well and polluted the water. Dr. Thomas said he han no doubt whatever that these cases of diphtheria were directly attributable to the poisoned water supply. The matter had been reported by him to a physician, a member of the sanitary board, and the health officer, and it was probable that this important-subject would receive further attention and official investigation, Dr. Thomas gave it as his opinion that in this city, as in all others, wells were fruitful sources of disease, and he advised that hydrant (river) water be used, as it was the best for all purposes and, when filtered, as pure as any water in the world.

West Point Enterprise: Colonel W. P. Orme's mother did not be defined and long their blasts of self-them of the poisoned water in the world.

Now these few facts are only given to show other owns, who blow loud and long their blasts of self-raise, that Greenville is not dead, but only sleep-th, and that ere long we will, (if nothing retards er present progress,) step to the front and place er name upon the state chancery as one of the cading villages of the south.

The Atlanta and West Point depot was also broken open and the front door of the safe was opened, but failed to get in the inside door to the money drawers; consequently they got nothing there. They then went to the store house of A. J. Kiser & Co., in which the Southern Express office is, and from some cause they did not break in, but left their tools in front of the door. The parties were supposed to have been seen and were two in number.

Brown brought the antiers to town as a trophy of the day's sport. Major E. H. This preparation, which has been known as Parker's Ginder Tonic, will hereafter be called simply Parker's Tonic. The change has been rendered necessary by substitutes imposed upon their customers by unprincipled dealers under the name of ginger; and as ginger is really an unimportant flavoring ingredient, we drop the misleading word.

There is no change, however, in the preparation itself, and all bottles remaining in the hands of dealers, wrapped under the name of Parrier's Ginger found of the country of the simple signature of Hiscox & Co. is at the bottom of the outside wrapper.

Several changes are announced for next year in Georgia journalism. Mr. M. L. Weston retires from the Dawson Journal, and will be succeeded by George W. Cheves. The Toccoa News will be sus pended. The Gainesville Eagle passes from the hands of M. L. Smith into the management of the Eagle company, while Mr. Smith will begin the publication of a new paper in Gainesville.

The Dawson Journal says that on last Monday night, in the council chamber, just as the old city council had been dissolved, Judge Lennard arose in behalf of the mayor and presented to Mr. Deubler a most beautiful gold-headed cane. The gift was from Dr. W. B. Cheatham, the mayor, and was presented to Mr. Deubler as a token of appreciation of his fidelity to the city as an alderman, had a sow with young pigs in my corn field, and yesterday afternoon I found her in an old well in the field. She was in the well six weeks and four days. She was very fat when she got in the well, but is very poor now, and will not eat corn, but wants to drink all the time, and may yet die. I have the eight young pigs as pets, but they are yery poor, as they were but three weeks old when their mother got in the well. Now I consider it almost a miracle how the sow could live to long in an old well.

It is said that the Irish peddlers of the south are to congregate near Macon for Christmas festivities to the number of over five hundred. At the last meeting of the citizens' sanitary asso ciation of Savannah, an address was delivered by Dr. J. G. Thomas, which might furnish clues in Atlanta as well as in Savannah. He said he was called in the latter part of November to attend a family in which the father was suffering from great physical depression and apparent blood poisoning, which had been in progress for several months, and which was accompanied with ulcers on his lower limbs of a diphtheretic character. In the same house was a son of the gentleman mentioned, who was also suffering from diphtheretic ulcers. In a few days diphtheria of the most malignant type developed in the young man's throat, accompanied with blood poising. After the lapse of a few days another son, a lad of 11 years, was attacked with the same disease, and died after an illness of ten days from blood poisoning. It was very evident, Dr. Thomas continued, that there was some local cause for these cases, and after investigation he found that the well from which there was liable to be drainage into the well. This well was dug previous to the construction of the Hal ed in the latter part of November to attend a family

Hawkinsville Dispatch: Mr. Charley Chauncey, one of our merchants, killed on Saturday last six pigs, the aggregate weight of which was one thousand three hundred and thirty-five pounds. They were not remarkable for size and weight but being raised by a merchant renders the fact worthy of mention. The only thing Mr. Chauncey is grieving over is the loss of his fine persimmon tree, which a party of hunters cut down to capture a possum. Judge J. B. Latimer, of Lumpkin, has a fan 176 years old. Judge J. T. Lumpkin, of Buena Vista, has a book 250 years old. Mr. Spencer, the intendant of Ellijay, says to the boys that the town ordinances, so far as shooting fire crackers is concorned, will be suspended from twelve o'clock on Christmas eve to twelve Christ

Gainesville Earle: Marshal Smith, together with hisrassistants, went out about six miles last Thursday and seized a small still within about one mile of Phillippi church. The operators would have been arrested had it not been for a little female sentinel who was posted one hundred yards from the stillhouse. She was dutful to her superior and gave the signal in due time for his escape.

The Eagle also says: George Duff, who has been the state of the staying with Mrs. Lydia Williams ever since a small boy, came to the conclusion the other day he had been living single long enough. Having formed the acquaintance of a Miss Rider, grand-daughter of the old lady. who was willing to look to his strong arm for support, both struck out for Dahlone ga to have the ceremony performed, but behold, a message had been dispatched forbidding all marry-ing officers of our town splicing them. But determined not to be defeated, the night being fair, so bailiffs, and when he made known his errand she told him there was no cow there, and peremptorily ordered him off of the place, accompaning the order with some unpleasant remarks which induced the bailiff to retire promptly. But Henry is not one of the kind to be balked by triffes in the discharge of his duty, and espyling some cows across a field, he made for them. Now, Wash's brindle had been through the mills, and knew a bailiff when she saw him. She had passed through two or three courts and faced a jury in Elberton, and had been appealed to the Flatwoods where she steod before the mill of justice on more than one occasion. She had met the high bailiff of the country court and special bailiffs innumerable. So when she saw Henry approaching she made for the jungles on the banks of the placid Broad. Henry was mounted on a mule that claimed to be one of the first settlers of the country, and that soon showed an aversion to tackling Wash's brindle for a race across the bottoms. In fact, it was evident that the mule's sympathies were with brindle, and no persuasion could induce him to continue the race. But Henry overcame this difficulty by borrowing a horse from a darkey, (which said horse had a serious habit of rearing up behind) and continued the pursuit. Arriving at the river's bank, the cow took refuge amid the vines and brambles, and Henry, dismounting, seized her by the tail and wrapped it around a sapling. The cow made one more mighty effort for liberty, and stringle left part of that caudal appendage in Henry's hands. But she lost her footing and became entangled in the vines immediately over the water. The bailiff proceeded legisurely to extricate the cow by cutting the vines, but when the vines gave way the cow fell on her back with a splash into the river. This was an emergency unicoked for by the officer of the law and he immediately set his wite to work to devise a means of escape from the diordered him off of the place, accompaning the order with some unpleasant remarks which inway the cow fell on her back with a splash into the river. This was an emergency unlooked for by the officer of the law and he immediately set his wits to work to devise a means of escape from the dilemma. Remembering the power vested in him by the constitution and laws o Georgia he mounted the borrowed pony and proceeded at once to summons a posse comitatus, and with their aid the cow was rescued from a watery grave. A rall was tied acroes her horns, and after several tumbles in the sand, caused by the peculiar habits of the horse, Henry arrived within the sacred precincts of the court ground, when brindle sullenity submitted to the inevitable, stood her trial, was honorably acquitted, and walked proudly home with an utter contempt for courts and bailiffs.

A HISTORIC GEORGIA VILLAGE. Sestiling at the Base of Pine Mountain-Out of Sound

Special to The Constitution.

GREENVILLE, Ga., December 22 .- Lying at the base of Pine mountain in a green and productive basin is the little village of Greenville. To beauty and gayety Greenville lays no claim, ripe in years and tottering fast into decay. The inhabitants of this place have but few things to break the dull ony of their every-day life, save now and then the slow and sad windings of a funeral proession bearing to the "city of the silent," all that" nortal of some aged citizen, who has out lived the scriptural term of years allotted to man. Now and then the outside world is furnished with the facts of a murder committed within her incorporate imits which is placed upon the county records to show that a certain man was killed on a certain day and there soon fades away into nothingness and fast forgotten. This fact does not argue any lack of justice in the courts or disregard for the laws of the land. No, no, not that, but there seems to be a universal indisposition upon the part of the people to seek notariety abroad. Thus for three quarters was liable to be drainage into the well. This well was dug previous to the construction of the Hall street sewer, and when the latter was built it dried the weil. The well was afterwards deepened and a supply of water obtained. As the sewer, by being deeper than the well, drew the water from the latter, so when the well was deepened it in turn drew its supply partly from the sewer. It was further ascertained that a few weeks before the sickness the soil pipe from the jail, which discharges into the Hall street sewer immediately in front of the house in which these cases of sickness occurred, and within a few feet of the bottom of it washed out, allowing the sewerage matter to escape into the soil, and, as is well known with all liquids, it sought its level, and found its way into the well and polluted the water. Dr. Thomas said he had no doubt whatever that these cases of diphteria were directly attributable to the poisoned water supply. The matter had been reported by him to a physician, a member of the sanitary board, and the health officer, and it was probable that this important subject would receive further attention and official investigation, Dr. Thomas gave it as his opinion that in this city, as in all others, wells were fruitful sources of disease, and he advised that hydrant (river) water be used, as it was the best for all purposes and, when filtered, as super as any water in the world.

Tuesday morning about 9 o'clock the house in which Wash Brown and his wiie, two very old negroes, lived about four miles north of here, was discovered to be on fire; when discovered there was no one nearer than half a mile possibly; and when the scene was reached the house was nearly burned up. Two charred bodies were found in the smoldering ruins, supposed to be those of the two old negroes. It is of course not known how the five originated. The old negroes were too feeble to assist each other and neighbors called in at night and waited on them. The old woman was blind, and the old man claimed to be more than a hundred years old.

The Record of Wild Cut District

From the Milton, Ga., Democrat.

The Clarion takes us to task for saying that four men had been murdered in Wild Cat district in twenty-eight years. Now we did not intend to wound the tenderest spot in the heart of a single Wild Cat er when we said "murdered;" we might have raid, for the sake of their feelings, that five men had been killed with knives, guns, sticks, and other weapons, in the last twenty-eight years: but then the dead men would have just stayed dead. Well, just to save feelings we will say that Claiborn Vaughn, Burton, Hansard, White and Moore, were all killed by the hand of their fellow men in Wiid Cat district, Forsyth county, within the last twenty-eight years.

THE RAILROADS,

THE HEADLIGHTS RUNNING INTO ATLANTA.

Colonel Foracre's Successor-The Georgia Central-The Atlantic and North Carolina Lease—The Mississippi Valley—The Georgia Pacific— Serious Accident to Mr. John Scott.

BALDWIN, of the Louisville and Nashville, telegraphs to E. H. Greene that the earnings of the road continue to be large and satisfactory, and that there is no truth in the new bond story lately circulated,

THE Atlanta friends of Mr. John Scott, general manager of the Cincinnati Southern, were pained to learn, yesterday, that Mr. Scott met with a serious accident in Cincinnati Thursday morning. It appears that he fell through a coal-hole in the sidewalk, dislocating his right shoulder, and breaking his arm.

An item in this column, yesterday, con cerning a recent meeting of the Southern Railway and Steamship association was so worded as to convey the impression that the proposed reduction of rates from the east to Atlanta came before that committee. The omission of "never" before the word "came" caused the item to express just the opposite of what was intended.

Work on the Canton, Aberdeen and Nash wille branch of the Inlinois Central railroad is now progressing satisfactorily. At Blanton's gap much difficulty was encountered, and the work proved to be of greater magnitude than was anticipated. The contractors, however, have now a large force at work, and by the 15th of January will have everything completed.

ATHENS BANNER: We learn Uncle Billy Bowers, the great railroad magnate of Franklin county, will shortly visit Athens with a view of organizing a company to build a railroad from this city to Carnesville. Augusta News: President W. G. Raoul, of the Central railroad, was in Augusta vesterday, in His petition to connect the Port Royal and the Augusta and Knoxville roads by means of a track along the second canal level was argued before the railroad committee of council yesterday in its legal bearing, and the committee will report at the next meeting of council.

ABOUT the busiest man in the United States is William Cornell Jewett, formerly known as "Colorado" Jewett, He is a well-preserved, lithe man orado Jewett. He is a well-preserved, fittle man on the sunny side of sixty, and he is as full of energy as a beaver. His first wife was a daughter of Commodore Garrison. His present wife is the daughter of a prominent banker of Frankfort, Germany. Mr. Jewett is determined to build a new railway line from New York to San Francisco. Tabor, of Colorado, is helping him, and Europe is expected to provide the tulk of the capital.

A PARAGRAPH has been going the rounds of the press to the effect that the wealthiest conductor in America is in the employ of the East Tennessee in America is in the employ of the East Tennessee Virginia and Georgia road, and that he is the possessor of fifty thousand good American dollars, not one of which is a trade dollar or has been plugged. There is a passenger conductor now running on the Louisville, Evansville and St. Louis Air-Loue who can, however, go the East Tonnessee, Virginia and Georgia man $10 000 better. This $60,000 conductor is not a very old man as yet, and if fortune smiles on him as heretofore, he has a bright future before him, and in the course of a few more years may own the road.

The place of general superintendent of the Geo gia Pacific railroad, made vacant by the resignation of Colonel G. J. Foreacre, has been filled. The new general superintendent is Colonel I. Y. Obeying the Law.

The general office of the Georgia Pacific at this point will be moved to Birmingham, the first of the year, not as a matter of convenience, but in order to comply with the Alabama law, which requires the general offices of the company to be located in that state. As a matter of course, offices will be kept open here for the transaction of important business.

Atlantic and North Carolina Lease. ORO, N. C., December 14.-At the meeting of the stockholders of the Atlantic and North Caro lina railroad, held here to-day, it was decided lease the road to the "Eastern Syndicate" for a period of thirty years.

The rental agreed upon is $36,000 per annum for the first ten years, $54,000 for the second ten years, and $72,000 for the third ten years. The terms of the lease require that the road shall be extended to Fayetteville in four years.

The lease is to be submitted to the board of directors for ratification. The "Eastern syndicate" is composed of wealthy capitalists and business men, among whom are Messrs. Gatling, John A. Bryan, Wahab, Wooten, Parrott and others.

The Mississippi Valley.

Trains on the Mississippi Valley railroad will in a few days be run at the rate of twenty miles an hour, including stops, between here and Bator Rouge. Work on the road north of the latter place has been somewhat delayed for the past two days, owing to the bridge works across the payou eight miles from there. Yesterday morning work was renewed on the line, the bridge having been completed, and hereafter the work will be pushed completed, and hereafter the work will be pushed northward rapidly.

There are now 98 miles of track laid and in run ning order, but trains will not be run north o Baton Rouge until the track is completed to Robin Station, at the junction with the Clinton and Port Huddson railroad.

Baton Rouge until the track is completed to Robin Station, at the innotion with the Clinton and Port Hudson rail road.

The entire road to Vicksburg and Memphis, it is believed, will be finished during the coming summer. Sixty-seven miles more are to be built before the banks of the Homo Chitto river are reached, where the forces working from Vicksburg down will be met. It is believed that all the different divisions will be completed about the same time.

A large lot of car material, castines and switch ties were shipped north from here yesterday.

In regard to the progress of the work on the Mississippi Valley railroad north of Vicksburg, the Herald of that city of Monday last, says: Five carloads of material for the superstructure of the bridge of the Louisville, New Orleans and Texas road, over the Yazoo river, at Alexander, arrived Friday night over the Vicksburg and Meridian, and two carloads of it were sent forward over the Louisville, New Orleans and Texas to the seeme of operations yesterday morning. It will take fifty-eight cars to hold the entire amount of iron material that will be consumed in the superstructure of the big Yazoo river bridge, and this will reach here in almost daily installments of four and five car loads until it has all been shipped. The bridge will be completed about the list of February, and ready for the passage of trains by the 18th of that month. Two thousand tons of steel rails arrived from Pittsburg, yesterday for the road above Yazoo river; of this lot 500 tons were unloaded here, and 1,500 sent in barges to Anthony's ferry. Eight thousand tons of steel rails are now en route from Pittsburg from the Louisville, New Orleans and Texas road. Considerable passenger traffic is going on between Vicksburg and the present terminus of the road, seven miles above Rolling Fork. A train now goes up there every day. The ferry transfers passengers at the bridge.

Poison.

Swift's Specific has relieved me of Malarial Blood Poison after I had been confined to the house for five months, and had been dosed with blue mass, calomel, and other poisonous drugs until I was in despair. Swift's Specific is the rem-selv for this kind of blood polson.

FOR LADIES.

I have been using for amonth or two in my household, Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), the greater portion of it having been consumed by the female pertior of my family, and with the happiest results. It acted like a charm on my wife, who had been in bad health for a long time, and for whom I have paid hundreds of dollars for doctors and medicines. It began to build her up from the first dose. Another female member of my family took it with equally satisfactory results. It is certainly the best tonic for delicate ladies that I have ever used, and I have tried them all. I have no doubt that want of exercise, close confinement in poorly ventilated houses, sewer gas poison and malarial poison often produce sickness among our wives, daughters and distern, and I believe Swift's Specific is the remedy for all this sort of blood poisoning.

TREATMENT OF CANCER.

For twenty years I have suffered from a cancer on the side of my neck near the shoulder, and exhausted the whole catalogue of remedies without any relief. The cancer growing worse all the time, the whole upper part of my body became stiff and full of pain, I had virtually lost the use of both arms, my general health had broken down, and I saw it was only a question of time when life itself would be destroyed. In this condition I commenced the use of Swift's Specific. The first bottle relieved me of the stiffness in the neck, the second gave me perfect use of my arms, and I feel strong and well in every way. I am a poor man, but I would not take $5,000 for the good I have experienced with Swift's Specific. I believe it will force out all the Poison and cure me.

THE week in Atlanta has been prolific of crime and casualty. Two suicides indicate that two men felt that this world was not worth clinging to. JUDGE TOMPKINS is in Washington, whither

THE colored gathering, now holding forth in Washington, listened to a very salty report on the Freedman's bank swindle. The report characterized the republican congress, which legislated a winding-up commission on high salaries, as the pall bearer of the swindle.

THE statements of Dr. Thomas, of Savannah, on the drinking of impure water, should be well considered by all who have an interest in the preservation of the public health. Diphtheria especially, he claims, owes its ex istence to the drinking of impure water, and the probability of all well water in cities being tainted is so great that hydrant water is strongly urged for use.

THE FUTURE SEAT OF MANUFATURES. The reader can scarcely have failed to observe that all the factories which have been shut down or which are running on partial time, or have cut down wages, are situated in the northern states. The iron mills are no worse off in that section than the cotton or woolen mills. The iron mills of the east feel not only the lessened demand for their products, but also the competition of southern furnaces. This is the case also with the cotton mills of New England. The iron from outhern furnaces can be transported to Pittsburg, and sold at a profit, for less than Pittsburg iron can be made for .. The cotton mills of this state and of South Carolina are earning dividends by sending their products to Boston and New York. If we had large manufactures of wood in our heavily timbered districts we could repeat the process of underselling the east in this branch of trade. And the reason for it all is plain-we have cheaper raw materials, cheaper labor and a more favorable climate. Our cotton mills can buy from the cotton fields. We have iron ore of the richest and best qualities lying next door to inexhaustible supplies of coal and lime. We have timber of all kinds that cannot be exhausted in a generation. "The south," says the St. Louis Republican, "is being recognized as reeminently the theatre for cheap manufact, ing, and its advantages cannot much longer remain unimproved. However that may be no furnaces or mills in the south are complaining of hard times, while it is doubtful if there is a northern cotton or woolen mill or iron furnace that is making expenses. As the test of low prices is applied, the advantages of the south for the profitable investment of money in manufac tures begin to be seen and appreciated.

BILL CHANDLER AS A BLACKGUARD. When Mr. Matthew Arnold returns to his friends and constituents in hold Hengland. he will have a pretty tale to tell of the antics of Mr. Billy Chandler. The trouble is that while Chandler's disgraceful capers are of no earthly importance so far as his relations with reputable people are concerned, they are of importance from an international point of view. Chandler is a member of the cabinet, and, as such, every antic he cuts is more or less a disgrace to the people of the whole country. Only under a republican administration would such a contemptible politician be allowed to hold office, but the re publican motto is, the greater the rascal the better the politician.

Chandler, it seems, was selected to intro duce Mr. Arnold to a Washington audience. His selection was in bad taste, and the style in which he performed it was worse; but he capped the climax, when, upon the conclusion of the lecture, which a large audience had paid its money to hear, he sprang to his feet like a jumping-jack, and, with a terrier like grin, and in terrier-like tones, begged some one to come forward and refute the argument and doctrines advanced by Mr. Arnold. He called upon several persons by name, and finally induced Fred Douglass, bootlick administrations, to address the people who had paid their money to hear the dis-

understand this sort of thing. He knows that Chandler is a leader and representative of the party that claims to possess all the culture and refinement to be found in the country, and he is no doubt convinced that Chandler's blackguardism is decidedly American in its scope and extent. So it is; but Mr. Arnold should be told that there is but one blackguard in the country who would thus deliberately make a distinguished visitor the victim of such a gross piece of impertinence; nor, outside of the capital, where republican corruption has corrupted society, is there a community that would tolerate such blackguardism. In all this wide country, thanks be to heaven, there is but one Bill Chandler

READY-MADE HOUSES.

New Orleans is hinting that she would be glad to become the site of the manufacture of ready-made houses; but it seems to us that if such an enterprise should ever be started in the south, the advantages which Atlanta offers as a manufacturing center will not be lost upon those who have the necessary capital and experience. So tar as advantages are concerned, they are waiting to be utilized in this direction as they have been utilized in hundreds of other directions. As a matter of fact, as the investigations of the THE Con-STITUTION and the census returns show. Atlanta is the manufacturing center of the south, and its people are the busiest people to be found in any of the cities of the United States in proportion to population. At the Kennebec framing company, of Bangor, Maine, dwelling-houses are made like shoes and boots of any desired size or quality, and they are delivered promptly and of complete finish. Orders are taken for any kind of dwelling, from a $50,000 hotel to a cheap, but ornate French cottage. When the houses arrive upon the spot where they are to be put up, they are accompanied by every detail, and the different pieces are so marked that they can be put up without the aid of a mechanic. There ought to be a wide field in Atlanta for such an enterprise, for not only s the city growing and expanding at an extraordinary rate, but the whole state is improving proportionately, and there is no doubt that a demand for ready-made houses would spring up in Georgia and throughout the whole south. Nor would there be any bjection, so far as we know, to sending ready made houses from Atlanta to New Orleans, so that our esteemed sister city ap the benefit of cheap material and skilled labor.

THE REPUBLICAN LEADER.

We observe with regret that the republican of the house are inclined to give the cold shoulder to the distinguished Keifer. Why this state of things should exist it is impossi ble to imagine. His natural gifts, to say nothing of his official position, confer upon Keifer the right to lead the house republicans, and the ardor with which he strives to exercise this right shows that the great western chief is as talented in the neighborhood of the cheek as he is in the neighborhood of the hat-band. But Keifer is not only talented in jowl and in brain, he is a professional republican of long standing. The New York Times acknowledged this when it alluded to the great leader as "a shameless and corrupt politician." No higher tribute could be paid to the services of any genuine republican; but, in spite of this, his party friends in the house persist in giving him the cold shoulder.

In the dispatches printed in yesterday's Constitution we read that the republicans of the hour, following the initiative of the pert and shallow Hiscock, sat down heavily upon the distinguished Keifer, ignoring not only his services and talents, but his official position. It is impossible to predict what the outcome of this will be, but the country may rest assured that Keifer will be heard from again. You can't squelch Intellect; you can't smother Brains. Keifer knows he is the republican leader, and this knowledge, together with an occasional hot scotch, will enable him to assume the responsible duties of his position in spite of the efforts of envious op-

ALTHOUGH the revised edition of the Old Testa ment has not yet found its way into print, severa notable corrections made by the revisers have been published, much to the surprise of the good people who have been accustomed to regard the translators of King James's version as showing the inspiration of the Hebrew writers. Joseph's coat of many colors as been ruthlessly sacrificed, and the varigated patchwork affair has been replaced by"a tunic with long sleeves." The reader will find other surprises equally as remarkable and distasteful. Heretofore the Bible has represented the hippopotamus as a thirsty beast that "drinketh up a river and hasteth not: he trusteth that he can draw up Jordan into his mouth." This exaggerated account of the ugly brute has always been implicitly credited by the readers of scriptures, but appears that Job never used such extravagant language. What he did say was sim ply this: "Though a river swells, he is not afraid; arless, though Jordan washes to his mouth." In other words the hippopotamus has sense enough to keep out of the wet, and is not going to flee to the nountain tops every time he sees the river at highwater mark. The passage in which Isaiah speaks of "chariots with flaming torches," appears in the evised version as "chariots with flashing steel." nstead of representing the woods as being filled with "mtyrs" and "dragons," we are now informed that "goats" and "jackals" roamed the forests. In the old Isaiah we are told that the "nation scattered and peeled whose land the rivers have spoiled," but the ruthless revisers turn the distressed people into "a nation, tall and shaven, whose land the rivers divide." The new version will doubtless meet with objections from conservative people, but if it proves to be a better translation it will make its way in time.

DIO LEWIS is of the opinion that Billy Chandler is o temperate. The probability is that Billy's tem erance is all on the surface. No sober man would get up as Billy did at Matthew Arnold's Washingon lecture and invite individuals in the audien to reply to it, on the ground that only one side had Sporting men do not consider it exactly legitinate for men to put themselves against beasts in ombat, but we have had in this country some very remarkable contests of that character. A London butcher, one Bill Veat, has been known to execute this feat, and years ago Harrington, a New York butcher, was in the habit of knocking an ex down with his fist for the amusement of his friends. There are not many men, however, who are able to give such sledge hammer blows, .

A surr now pending in the New York courts may settle the vexed question of the invention of the telephone. The pending litigation involves im-mense interests. In the United States the telephone system has been capitalized at about $100,-000,000. Exchanges are also in successful operation in England, France, Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands, Norway, Brazil, Spain, New Zealand, Russia, Greece, Italy, Mexico, Vensuela, Canada, outh and Central America, Cuba, and almost verywhere in the civilized world. The first telephonic telegraph patents were granted here in 1877. Before January 1, 1878, they numbered twenty-two Now they constitute eight sub-divisions, embracing about four hundred patents, besides two hundred patents pending for exchange systems. The present uit is between the American Bell Telephone company and the People's Telephone company. The Bell company desires to obtain an injunction and damages against the People's company for an al-leged infringement by the latter of Bell's patent. The People's company deny that Bell is the original inventor of the telephone and allege that Daniel Drawbaugh, of Cumberland county, Fa., invented it. The evidence is very conflicting, and it is im ssible to forecast the result.

Some of the "private bills" in congress have been going through the mill for over a half a century. The old French spoliation claims bill, for instance has quite an extended history. It was introduced over sixty years ago. Several times it passed one ouse and failed in the other, and two or times it passed both houses, but was vetoed. A bill or the relief of the heirs of General James H Carleton has been pending for twenty years. Another bill was introduced twenty-five years ago for the relief of William H. DeGroot. Later the bill was for the relief of DeGroot's widow, and now it is for the "relief of the heirs," etc. The history of these bills is the history of disappointed hopes, and the end is not yet.

A NUMBER of members of the present hous have received large fortunes with their wives. Among these are Hitt, of Illinois; Abram S. These are Morse, who has an immense clothing house in Boston, and Russell, of Lawrence, who has large manufacturing interests both in Massachusetts and Vermont. William Walter Phelps, of New Jersey, is another very rich member. He is a comparatively young man, and inherited a portion of his property. MR. BOOTH on the street is much like the Booth of the stage. Yesterday morning he started to walk up Twenty-third street, New York. The first to notice him was a young clerk walking with a companion. He quickly turned and said: "There is Booth," and then they passed on. A nurse girl, leading two children, recognized the face and deferentially said: "Children, there is Mr. Booth," at the corner of Twenty-third street and Fifth avenue, where the crowd was thickest, a richly dressed girl in her teens suddenly clasped her hands and rapturously said: "Oh, there is Booth—oh, dear!"

A RECENT visitor to the Hon. Simor Cameron found him in his library, two large rooms extending the entire length of the house, the walls ined with well-laden bookshelves. He sat near his desk, which was strewn with letters and papers his desk, which was strewn with letters and papers relating to his large business interests and social correspondence, to all of which he still gives close personal attention. The whole apartment looked like the office of a busy lawyer, rather than the library of a man of leisure for past 80 years. Mr. Cameron will be 86 years old in March, but he stands erect, and his well marked features—high forehead, black eyes, prominent nose, set lips and strong, projecting chin—have only been made bolder and stronger by the hand of time.

The Fence Cutters of the Lone Star State Who Claim That They Have Rights. From the Chicago Tribune:

GALVESTON, Tex., December 19 -One of the print ipal members of the "Javelins," an organization that has recently made its appearance in southwest Texas, has revealed some of the motives actuating the fence cutting in a struggle that is shaking Texas to the centre. Said He: "We are like minnows in a pool of hungry trout. Some big stock man buys all the lands around on all sides, his cattle graze on our lands and ours on his. When he makes his rounding' our cattle are driven off to some distant point on his large ranch with his. "No, sir, no man has a right to fence you up or enclose the grass and water. He didn't plant the grass or have anything to do with making it grow. Neither did he create the springs or rivers. Farm lands in Georgia are worth fifty dollars as re, for the reason that they will yield a fair rat of intereston that sum. Judicious management for five years will make a market for them at that price—an active market. It is therefore practicable to make money rapidly in the farming districts of Georgia. To advance values from five dollars to fifty in half a decade is progress. These are startling propositions, but almost any emphatic declaration of truth will startle the men of this generation. They are not used to such things. No intelligent man will undertake to controver these same startling propositions. What then is meant by judicious management? Simply this: Owners of land must take personal control of their own, and both plan and direct all operations of the farm. If merchants were to rent their stores as farmers do their lands they would all fail in just about one month. Let errors be corrected and rational suggestions accepted. Rent no lands to negroes on any terms, because both land and labor are demoralized thereby. The material damage they do exceeds the best rental they can pay. The Carlton Proposition.

From the Chicago Tribune.

If the south is to be paid for its losses, who is t pay the north for the lives of its 300,000 young men which were sacrificed in the war for slavery forced upon it by the south? Who is to pay for its war debts, taxes, and pensions? Mr. Carlton talks glibly enough of the misfortunes of the south and sacrificed, and the millions of dollars it was boreed to spend? The misfortunes of the bouth were self-imposed by its treasonable action, it was a handful of slave-owners who precipitated he war and plunged the masses of the southern becopie into their troubles. They lost their slaves is the consequence of their defeat, for they risked hat class of "property" on the issue of the struggle or they would never have entered upon it. Hence it is worse than useless for them to talk of compensation. They committed the crime of treason and must pay its penalty. They should be grateful it is not heavier.

These transactions referred to consisted in the fictitious purchase and sate of cotton through the agency of Bliss and Bennett, at New Orleans, at the order of General Longstreet. The notes were discounted by the Tradesmens bank, and afterwards protested when they fell due for non payment. Another defense was that the action was barred by the statute of limitations. Buffalo, N. Y., December 21.—Richard Stevens, a well-to-do farmer, who resides with his wife and seven children at Jordan, about a mile and a half west of this place, is very ill of pneumonia. A few nights ago two of the daughters retired, leaving their shoes in the sitting-room. They were aroused by a noise as though something had been thrown into the bedroom, and on investigation their shoes were found to have been thrown from the sitting room by the side of the bed. The the sitting room by the side of the bed. The next night a stone weighing about half a pound fell with a crash by the side of their father's bed, at which they were so alarmed that they sat up the remainder of the night. This did not prevent the falling of other stones, apparently from the ceiling of the room in which the family sat, although there was no hole in the ceiling or windows and the doors were all closed. Seven stones fell that night and the succeeding day varying in significant. and the succeeding day, varying in size from a quarter of a pound to a pound. The family was so alarmed that they finally called in a neighbor and he stayed for a numthree miles from Georgetown. The murderer and his victim were associated together in the butchering business and frequently made tours through the county in quest of cattle. The afternoon before the homicide they went together to a farm, some ten miles below here, and Rembert took with him a cousiderable sum of money with which he expected to purchase the beeves. He did not, however, make any purchases. Late in the evening the two men started together for home, coming by way of the Sampit ferry. It was near midnight when they reached the ferry.

'A most terrible murder was committed last

Nellie Harden, a negro woman, aged sixty years. died very suddenly last night at 107 Chapel street, The old woman's home was in West End, near Culberson's store. Yesterday morning she came to the ing his hand. Too late he finds her heart is given to another, the man he has regarded as a son and loves as such. To compensate for what he considers his error, he sacrifices wife, child and home, and goes away, returning after six years, blind and feeble, to find matters just as he had wished them, and to die with his wife and child in his arms. It is a piece that appeals to the sentiments, and while not new to our people, it is very popular.

The above play was produced at DeGive's opera house to a good sized sudience last night. The scenery is good and realistic. The scenery in the first act, consisting of Marblehead Neck at sunset, with rolling surf, the distant light, and the gathering thunder storm, in which the Nantucket is wrecked, is realistic and exciting. The moving mill wheel in the second act, is a good piece of mechanism. The home scene, the church yard and the cabin of Owen Garroway were pictures that deserved and received applause. As "Terry Bennison," with his patient, all absorbing love for "Chrystal" Mr. James A. Herne was strong and excellent in his impersonation, Equally strong was the love of "Chrystal," impersonated by Miss Mollie Corcoran, for 'Ruby Darrell." She acted with much grace, feeling and power. Mr Charles H. Clark, as "Uncle Davy," and Mr. Chippencale as 'Owen Garroway," were both deserving of praise. Little Maud Thompson did fine bit of juvenile action. The "Baby" is a bright little star. In fact, the entire company is an excellent one and the seting very smooth and good, indeed. The realistic eccnery and sisge appointments are claborate and well managed "Hearts of Oaks," as presented by Herne and his company, is well worthy a generous patronage. Mathies this afternoon at two o'clock. Performance to night closes the engagement. It is propor to say there was a good deal of the nonsensical rowdy demonstrations in the galleries last uight. Are the management and the police powerless?

BURLINGTON, Ia., December 21.—The passenger train, No. 1, of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, ran into the rear end of passenger train No. 5, at Gladstone, Illinois, last evening, tele No. 5, at Gladstone, Illinois, last evening, tele scoping the Puliman car which took fire and was destroyed. Richard Somers, superintendent of the dining car service of the road at Chicago, was instantly killed, and his body burned almost beyond recognition. Six passengers were in jured, but none of these, it is thought, fatally. Two coaches were consumed. The loss is about $50,000. The engineer of train number one, did not see the rear lights on number 5.

At the request of the southern board of Baptist foreign missions, Dr. H. H. Tucker will probably eave, early next week, with Dr. Tupper for Coanuila, Mexico. ON THE BRIDAL TOUR

What a Conductor Says of Brides and Grooms on Pas From the Philadelphia Record.

"Can I generally tell a bride and groom when say so. I haven't been runnin' a Pullman car five years and not learned that little trick;" and the parlor car conductor, who made the above remarks ilted back in his chair in the readingroom at th Broad street station yesterday afternoon, and chuckled softly to himself as he blew out a cloud of eigar smoke into the air and gazed at it as though he saw there visions of young married couples on their travels their travels.

"Yes, sir," he continued, after two or three vigorous puffs, "it must be a pretry sharp pair that can fool me when 'they're on their weeding journey, though about half of 'em plays their little game very nicely, and the rest of the passengers don't numble to the situation all. Of course, there are different sorts of brides and grooms, just as much as there are different sorts of other people; but I've found that, as a rule, the brides don't care to be taken for such, and try their best to hide the interesting facts from the rest of the car. Others don't appear to care a rap, and spoon away as though there wasn't any one within a mile of 'em, but that sort rare, and generally gets on at some coun-try station."

there wasn't any one within a mile of 'em, but that sort rare, and generally gets on at some ccuntry station."

"How about the men?"

"Oh, they are altogether different, and nine times out of ten it's the man who gives the thing away, You see, they're so tickled at being married, and so proud of their wives, that it is as much as the ladies can do to make them act in a disinterested enough way to pass for a nitend or a relation, or a husband of longistandi ge. It has to be a powerful strong minded fellow who can pass several hours in a car and not give any signs of his recently acquired happiness. Some of the brides, who are afraid to rely on their own acting and the promises of their new hasband 'to behave,' carry old valises and handbags that don'r look at all bridish; and I've seen several very young ones that made their husbands tow along a big bundle of school books, to make people believe that their brothers or cousins were taking them back to boarding school."

"Have you many this season?"

"Scores of 'em; scores of 'em, sir. Its-a great time, this and the spring, though the lively seasons about over for the present. If you're going down to Washington some day take my trein, and if I've got any on board I'll point 'em out. Good day," And the genial discoverer of brides, knocked the ashes from his cigar and went out.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity stength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low-test, short-

NKW YORK, December 21 .- The stock marke opened strong and higher and prices advanced 1/2 to 1/2 per cent, Canadian Pacific leading. As usual of late Union Pacific was the feature, rising to 79, declining and recovering % per cent. The general list weakened soon after the opening of the state-ment that the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy had assumed an aggressive attitude and would not en-ter the pool on the condition made public. This caused a general decline in prices, Quincy fell off % per cent, Northwest 13%, St. Paul 3%, Louisville and Nashville 1/2, Lake Shore 1/2, Northern Pacific 1/4, Oregon Transcontinental 1. From m'dday until near 2 p. m. the market was steady and firm with a rally of 1/4 per cent. It was currently reported that the Northwest company had signified its intention of going into the pool, but officials in this city denied these reports. Late in the after noon Union Pacific depressed and broke to 761/4 against 791/4 earlier in the day. A sensational story was started in the room to the effect that Union Pacific would be paralelled. Transactions in stock during the last hour were enormous. Compared with last night's closing prices Union Pacific was 2 per cent lower; St. Paul 1¾; Omaha ¾; Wabash ¾; Louisville and Nashville ¾; active Coal shares 1/2 to 1/2. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, Illinois Central, Kansas and Texas, and Michigan Central, however, were 1/2 to 3/8 per cent higher. Western Union, New Jersey Central, New York Central, and Missouri Pacific were unchanged. Sales 325,000

ney General Anderson, who had just run up from Macon.

The reporter asked Colonel Anderson if there was anything new in the Renfroe case, or anything of interest that had not already been stated. Said he:

"You had a short article a few days ago that about covered the ground."

"What is the history of the case?"

"The history of the case is about this: In 1879 a committee of the legislature investigated the condition of the treasury and as a result recommended to the legislature the passage of a resolution directing the governor to issue an execution against Mr. Renfroe and his sureties on the official bond of the treasurer. The resolution was passed and the execution was issued for something over seventeen thousand dollars, official bond of the treasurer. The resolution was passed and the execution was issued for something over seventeen thousand dollars, which it was alleged had been collected by the treasurer and his sureties as commissions and interest for the use of the state's funds. The execution, as I said, was issued and Renfroe and one of his streties on whose property the execution. The injunction was granted and the state took the case to the supreme court. The supreme court affirmed the decision of the court bellow, granting the injunction on the grounds that the execution was illegal, that whatever liability there was would have to be established by a suit on the bond, and efforts have been made to get the case tried, but without success. At the last term of the court a special effort was made to get the case up, but without success. At the last term of the court a special effort was made to get the case up, but without success. An effort was also made to get it up at this term. It is probable that the case will come up early in next April."

Mr. Wadley was the brother of the late Wm. Wadley, president of the Central railroad. He was about sixty-five years of age and his sudden death created quite a sensation among those who knew him. On McDaniel street a few doors east of Mr. Wadley's home resided his daughter, Mrs. Steele. Mrs. Wadley has been in New York for some time and during her absence Mr. Wadley has been in the habit of sleeping at his home, No. 87, and eating his meals at Mrs. Steele's. Wednesday he ate dinner with his daughter but at supper time failed to put in an appearance. This was an unusual occurence but Mrs. Steele, though thinking it rather strange, did not become alarmed. On Thursday morning her father did not come to breakfast and this second absence from the table without an explanation so alarmed the daughter that she at once resence from the table without an explanation so alarmed the daughter that she at once repaired to her father's home. She easily gained an entrance, and knowing just where her father slept, she quietly, but rapidly, ascended the stairway leading to his room. The door of the room she found unlocked, and, pushing it open, she entered. On the bed she saw ther father. But only a glance was necessary to tell her that he was dead. The discovery was a terrible one, and so overcome Mrs. Steele that several minutes elapsed before she could withdraw to give the alarm. The friends who responded to the sad news decided that as Mr. Wadley had died alone and unattended that an inquest would news decided that as Mr. Wadley had died alone and unattended that an inquest would be advisable. Coroner Hilburn was notified and with a jury made a formal investigation. When the jury entered the room they found the body just as it was when Mrs. Steele first discovered it. The dead man was lying flat upon his back with his eyes and mouth about half open. The body was protected by the underwear, shirt and shoes. His clothing was examined and in the pockets were found between $65,000 and $70,-

000 in valuables. There was about $300 in money and the rest was in Central road, Georgia road and Atlanta and West Point road bonds. There was about $5060 in promissory notet made by different persons. The jury decided that Mr. Wadley's death was the result of heart disease. Mrs. Wadley arrived yesterday. The arrangements for the funeral have not been completed.

After the court had been called to order the prisoner's attorney arose and stated that his client had no desire to have a preliminary trial, as an effort would be made for a trial in the Fulton superior court early in January. The judge then committed the prisoner. It is under-stood that the prisoner's attorneys will make an effort to have Judge Hammond, of the superior court, decide whether or not the case s a bailable one next week, and if so, to secure the prisoner's release upon bail. There will probably be a special session of the grand

Judge McCay asked Mr. Speer what he had to say to the motion and that gentleman replied that he did not feel inclined to resist the motion. He had no desire to resist it if there was probable cause that the two defendants named would be able to demonstrate their innocence. He wished, however, to call the attention of the court to the testimony of all of the witnesses for the defense who had sworn so positively that the five men who now admit their guilt were at other places on the night of the 25th of July when the outrages were committed. FIGHTING FOR TICKETS.

End of a Suit For The Possession of a lot of Railrond Tickets. Tickets.

The case of Effis vs. Shelton et. al. was decided yesterday in the superior court in favor of the compainant. As the case was one involving some vital principles of law and equity, a brief history of it will be of interest.

It appears that L. J. Ellis, as compiler of the "rate sheet of through passenger fares from Atlanta," had made a mistake of $10 in the rate to Rogers, Arkansas, as quoted in the sheet for the monthlof, April, 1882, that certain ticket brokers, Shelton and Stokes, of Atlanta sent a second and third party on the night of the 5th of April, 1882, to the ticket office of the Western and Atlantic railroad, which office was governed as to the price of tickets by rates quoted in the above mentioned rate sheet, and purchased 65 tickets to Rogers, Ark., at the rate quoted in the rate sheet, namely, $21,25 each.

The compiler realizing his responsibility for the error approached the brokers in a day or two with an offer of $100 cash in hand, if they would give up the tickets. This the brokers refused to do.

sing of the tickets. The Western and Atlantic nailroad was made a party to the bill. The injunction was granted. The defendants contested the right to the issuance of the injunction, and the case was carried to the supreme court which sustained the injunction, and a receiver was appointed to take charge of the tickets in dispute.

The suit for the recovery of the tickets was finally tried before a jury in the superior court, Judge Hammond on the bench.

The defendants claimed in their answer that the transaction was a legitimate one; that they did not know of the mistake at the time of the purchase, and that they did not now know it was a mistake; that the nature of their business required sometimes that they purchase tickets in a quiet manner so that other interested parties might know nothing of it; that they did not act in a fearable to the suprementation of the product the suprementation of the product of the suprementation of the product of the suprementation of the product of the suprementation of the suprementat

The intelligence of the death reached The Constitution and an investigation of it was made. Owing to the fact that Mrs. Wadley, who was then en route from New York to Atlanta, knew nothing of it, and as her health was so precarious that it was feared that the news would have a fatal result should she happen to read it, it was thought best to Mr. Wadley was the broth. gence of the complainants and they ought not to recover.

It appeared from the evidence that the brokers had gotten two persons strangers on to the ticket agents, to purchase the ticket agent a few minutes before the midnight train of the Western and Atlantic railroad pulled out, representing that he had laborers for Rogers, Arkansas, whom he wished to get off that night, and bought ten tickets to Rogers, Arkansas, paying therefor $21,25 each, the rate quoted in rate sheet; that the ticket seller was governed by the rate quoted in the sheet, but that the purchaser had voluntarily stated to the ticket seller that $21.25 was the correct rate, stating that a certain agent had so quoted it to him that day. It also appeared that the next train left at or about 5 a. m., and a different ticket seller came on a. m., and a different ticket seller came on duty—one who had recently come into the service and who had but slight knowledge of the rate and ticket business; knowledge of the rate and ticket business; that he was approached at separate times by the two deputies, strangers to him, of Shelton & Stokes, one of them giving as his name what afterwards proved not to be his name, representing that they had laborers and emigrants going to Rogers, Ark, stating that some of them were at Cartersville, and discussing with the agent the best plan of ticketing them from Cartersville, bought, one of them thirty-three tickets to Rogers and the other twenty-two. It also appeared that one of defendants had admitted to the compiler, and boasted of the fact that he knew there was a mistake in the rate to Rogers, Ark.

The case was argued half a day, and the jury remained out eighteen hours. The verdict required the return of the tickets in con-

Early yesterday morning Coroner Hilburn was notified that a stranger had been found dead in his bed at the Hotel Weinmeister: and as soon as possible a jury of inquest was mpaneled and an investigation begun. The dead man's name appeared on the hotel regster as Franz Riden, but to the name no place of residence was attached, consequently in the absence of any papers or letters the man's home is unknown. Thursday morning about seven o'clock Riden entered the hotel office, and after writing his name in the regis ter, asked to be assigned to a room. To cure the prisoner's release upon bail. There will probably be a special session of the grand jury in January, and the case will then soon reach a trial.

THE BANKS COUNTY KUKLUX. Yesterday in the United States court the amended motion for new trial in the Banks county kuklux case came up. The court was to hear the affidavits of the several defendants as to Dilmus Yarbrough and E. H. Oreen.

Mr. Weinmeister cannot recall the exact conversation that passed between him and Riden, but from what he recollects he says that Riden expressed himself as tired and weary, as though he had just completed a long journey. He declared himself a stranger in the place, but failed to say where he came from. Immediately after the conversation Riden was shown to his room and the tion Riden was shown to his room and the porter who conducted him thither was the last person who saw him alive. About 10 o'clock one of the chambermaids repaired to the room to which Riden had been assigned, but as she started to open the door she saw the form of a man resting upon the bed. The man was fully dressed and appeared to be asleep and the chamber-maid not wishing to distarb him, quietly closed the door and did not again visit the room during the day.

Riden's absence from the table at dinner and supper Thursday did not of course attract and supper Thursday did not of course attract attention. In fact his presence was entirely forgotten. Yesterday morning the chamber maid again repaired to the room. She turned the door knob and finding the door unlocked pushed it open. She was greatly surprised to find the man still on the bed in the same position in which she saw him twenty-four hours before. Thinking that something might be wrong she quietly closed the door again and sought one of the porters to whom she told what seemed strange to her. The porter at once opened the door, entered the room and found the man dead. He was lying upon his right side and had on room, sent for Coroner Hilburn.

At the inquest only three witnesses were examined. They were Henry J. Kappelslatter, the clerk; Miss Katie Goetz, the chambermaid, and Osborne Pope, colored, the porter. The first witness testified to assigning the man to the room, the second to finding him on the bed on Thursday and Videa more incompany to the finding him on the bed on Thursday and Videa more incompany to the finding him on the bed on Thursday and the third to finding Friday moralings, and the third to finding him dead. An exemination of the dead man's effects revealed one dollar and ninety cents in silver, one single case silver watch and roll plate chain, one empty pocket book, one pocket knife, one package smoking tobacco, one pipe and some matches, one pair of gloves, one memorandum book with German poetry referring to bad health, and German Catho lic prayer book, one pocket handkerchief, two slices of Graham bread and butter, one overcoat and a valise. The man was neatly dressed in a navy blue suit. He was about forty-five years of age and would weigh about 145 pounds. His hair was black, slightly sprinkled with gray. He had a mustache and goatee. In his valise was a lot of soiled clothing and a pair of pants. An examination of the dead body by Dr. Boring revealed the fact that the deceased had been in ill health and that he had suffered from a loathsome disease, which in all probability drove him to referring to bad health, and German Catho disease which in all probability drove him to his death. There was no absolute evidence of suicide, but the general appearance of the body, the appearance of the eyes, etc., in-duced Dr. Boring to state that death was induced by an overdose of morphine. The jury returned a verdict of death from an overdose of morphine taken with suicidal intent.
